Personal Finance with Dr. Emily Roberts

The Graduate Student and Postdoc's Guide to Personal Finance

Hack Your Budget

Fill out this form by March 2nd

📅 February 25, 2022
⏰ 1:00 PM
📍 Zoom

📅 March 4, 2022
⏰ 1:00 PM
📍 Zoom

Are you ready to take the next step with your finances as a graduate student receiving a stipend or postdoc? Do you want to learn how to allocate your money more optimally, break the cycle of living paycheck to paycheck, increase your net worth even while in training, and properly report your income on your tax return? This webinar presents an 8-step framework to guide you from broke to financially secure to wealthy through saving, debt repayment, and investing and includes real-life examples of other graduate students and early-career PhDs finding financial success.

When it comes to balancing their budgets, grad students and postdocs usually try to pack as much value into as little spending as possible. This immensely practical workshop shows attendees how to “hack” their budgets by decreasing their spending in key necessary areas. Attendees will submit their spending data on housing, utilities, transportation, and food in advance through a survey. Dr. Roberts will present the crowdsourced data and invite attendees to share with one another their strategies and tips, focusing on university- and city-specific insights.

Presented by: CoE EmPOWER
Sponsored by CoE Office of Graduate and Postdoctoral Affairs & Office of Equity and Inclusion